Spring 1996 Newsletter of the Land Margin Ecosystems Research Program

By: Land Margins Ecosystems Research Program

Contents: "The LMER program today" by John Hobbie; "LMER sites compare utilization of river-borne dissolved organic carbon" by Charles Hopkinson, Jr.; "Workshop developed paradigms on estuarine food web structure" by Linda Deegan; "Residence times workshop links physics and ecology" by Bill Boicourt; "GIS group assesses nutrient flux calculation methods" by Jack Finn; "Scanfish allows TIES researchers to quickly map shallow estuarine areas"; "Chesapeake Bay site extends work of first LMER project to higher trophic levels" by Walter Boynton; "LMER publications"